MAYURBHANJ STATE

Mayurbhanj ranks first in point of population and revenue among the States of the Eastern States Agency, numbering forty-two, twenty-six of which were known as the Orissa States, fourteen as the Central Provinces States and two as Bengal States. The history of its ruling family goes back into hoary antiquity, and numerous archæological finds testify to its powerful sway, and to the vast domains that constituted its territory for hundreds of years. Bhanja Kings ruled over their extensive territory from Khijjinga—Kotta, modern Khiching, whose ancient remains bear eloquent testimony to the eminence and culture of the then rulers which found expression in diverse forms of art of a very high order, styled Mayurbhanj School of Art by Rene Grousset. and art critics of acknowledged authority. Its geographical and strategic position constituted it an important buffer State at a time when the Hon'ble East India Company and the Mahrattas were engaged in a struggle for supremacy in Eastern India, and when in 1803, the Mahratta power was routed by the British in Orissa, Maharani Sumitra Devi, who was the ruler of Mayurbhanj at the time, rendered valuable aid to the Hon'ble Company's arms. A treaty was concluded with her grandson in 1829 by the British authorities. During the Mutiny of 1857, the ruler of Mayurbhanj again distinguished himself as a loyal ally of the East India Company. A succession of wise rulers has helped Mayurbhanj to win the reputation of a model State; and the present ruler's father, Maharaja Sriram Chandra, administered the State on British lines in a manner which earned universal commendation. Judicial independence, which has been secured under a full-powered High Court, is a special feature of its administration

The State is rich in mineral and forest resources, and supplies the bulk of raw materials needed for the Tata Iron and Steel Works of Jamshedpur. The present administration is making every effort to promote the industrial interests of the State, by affording technical instructions on various lines, and financial aid to home industries. Co-operative credit and agricultural organizations are making steady headway, while general education is spreading through well-regulated schools and a liberal system of scholarships. A net-work of good roads is proving a powerful aid to business enterprise, besides facilitating communication

The Capital of the State is Baripada, which is a progressive municipal town providing modern amenities. Baripada and the southern parts of the State are served by the Mayurbhanj Railway which takes off at Rupsa, a junction station on the Calcutta-Madras line of the B N Railway. The northern portion of the State is, likewise, served by a broad-gauge section of the B N Railway which connects with Tatanagar on the Calcutta-Bombay line. The state possesses two aeroplanes, and there is an aerodrome and landing ground near the Capital, being the only Air-port in the Agency

The present Maharaja, who succeeded his brother in 1928, received his education in the Rajkumar College, Ajmer, and Muir Central College, Allahabad. He is an enlightened prince with democratic ideas, and takes a keen personal interest in all branches of the administration. He has married into the Shisodia Family of Shahpura Rulers in Rajputana. The Maharaja enjoys a hereditary salute of 9 guns, and is a permanent member of the Chamber of Princes from the Eastern States

Area of the State is 1,243 sq. miles. Population (1931) 889,603

There are Dak Bungalows at Baripada and at all Sub-divisional Headquarters

The telephone system accounts for a total length of 212¾ miles, connecting all important centres with the Capital

A nine-gun State in the Gohilwad division (Kathiawar) of the Western India States Agency. Area, 288 square miles. Revenue about, Rs. 8,00,000. The chief town, Palitana, is a station on the Bhavnagar State Railway. This hill is sacred to Adinath, the deified founder and organiser of Jainism. The entire summit is covered with temples, amongst which the most famous are those of Adinath, Kumarpal, Vimalsha, Sampriti Raja and the Chaumukh. The last is the most lofty temple on the hill and can be clearly distinguished from a distance of 25 miles. Shatrunjaya is the most sacred of the five sacred hills of the Jains in India. Owing to the special sanctity of the Shatrunjaya hill, Jains from all parts of India in affluent circumstances are anxious to construct temples on the hill, and all members of the faith feel it a duty to perform, if possible, at least one pilgrimage here during their lifetime. Palitana is chiefly noted for its pure breed of Kathi horses. Population (1931), 62,150

SANDUR STATE—South India

Sandur is the only Mahratta State in South India in direct political relations with the Government of India since 1923, in pursuance of the recommendations of the Montagu-Chelmsford Report, to place all States possessing full internal Sovereignty in direct political relations with the Government of India. It is bounded on all sides with the British district of Bellary, except on the South, where its frontier touches that of Mysore. It comprises an area of about 167 square miles, and possesses best sundalwood, and manganese mines of the first rate quality. Half the output of manganese from India every year is from Sandur State

The Ruling House of Sandur is known by the family name of the Gootyker Ghorpades. The State was conquered in 1728 by Raja Siddojirao Ghorpade, and during the time of his son and successor, it attained the zenith of its territorial expansion, and was a Power to be reckoned with in the wars of the Coromandel and in the Mysore Wars. The "Country of Gooty" held by Raja Murar Rao comprised the moiety of the Ceded Districts. Raja Murar Rao rendered invaluable aid to Lord Clive in the siege of Arcot, and for the devotion of this House to the British cause, the East India Company specifically reserved to themselves, in the Mysore Treaty of 1782 "the liberty of reinstating the family of Murar Rao in the Country of Gooty". Sir Thomas Munro has described the Ruler of Sandur in 1817 as, "as much a Sovereign in his own Valley as any Prince in India". The State has powers of life and death. It pays no tribute to the Crown, and is free from all pecuniary demands

The present Ruler succeeded to the Raj in 1928. On the 22*nd December,* 1929, he was married to Rani Shri Sow Sushila Devi Ghorpade, the eldest daughter of Umdat-ul-Mulk Raj Rajendra Malojirao Narsingrao Shitole, Deshmukh, Rustumjung Bahadur, the premier Noble of Gwalior. He assumed the reins of administration on the 5*th February,* 1930. The Ruler is the fountain-head of all authority in the State, legislative, judicial and executive. He established a Praja Mandal (Sandur State Council) in 1931 to advise the Government in all legislative matters. The Praja Mandal consists predominantly of non-official members. It has the right to initiate legislation, to move resolutions and ask questions. In 1933, the Ruler established an independent Chief Court, presided over, under an arrangement with the Madras Government, by the District and Sessions Judge, Bellary, who is invariably an I C S officer. The Nyayadhish is appointed by the Ruler by a warrant under his Sign Manual. By a Proclamation issued in 1933, the Ruler has thrown open all temples, and other Government institutions in the State to the Harijans. This is the first Indian State to undertake this bold step. The ryots in the State are very lightly taxed, and enjoy, besides, many privileges which do not obtain elsewhere. Land Revenue is the only tax the ryot pays to the Government, and those who do not cultivate lands do not contribute anything to the State Exchequer. The Government, on the otherhand, spend more than three times what they receive from the ryots for administrative and nation-building activities. A liberal educational policy, based on the Wardha Scheme, is being implemented. A wide net-work of primary schools subsidised by the Government exist in the State. Vocational instruction in weaving and agriculture is being imparted in the Vidya Mandir at Sandur. A scheme to revive cottage industries is engaging the attention of the Government. The State Forces were well-organised last year, and are officered by a Retired Officer from British Army

The State has an excellent hill-station at Ramgad, at an altitude of 3,250 feet above sea-level. It was a Hill-station for the British troops till 1918, when the Bellary Cantonment was abolished

On the Vijayadasmi Day, the Ruler announced that the "Darbar", which is a larger body than the Praja Mandal, should be a sort of Second Chamber in the State. The Darbar is a Representative Assembly consisting of Jaghirdars, the hereditary aristocracy of the State, the Inamdars, the Ashrits, the members of the Praja Mandal, prominent ryots, mercantile and other special interests. The Ruler refers all important political and administrative affairs to this Assembly. A Committee is being formed to frame a Constitution for Sandur defining the mutual rights, duties and responsibilities of the Ruler and the ruled

The Executive Council is in charge of the administration of the State

The State pays no tribute to the Government. It is rich in forests of teak, especially near the Sahyadri hills, blackwood, ain, Kher and Jambha. Near the sea the more important trees are the jackwood, mango and bhirand. Cocoanuts and cashew-nuts are very plentiful. The staple agricultural produce of the State is rice; but the quantity being insufficient for the wants of the people, a good deal is imported from outside. Iron ore of fair quality is found in the neighbourhood of the Ramghat in the Sahyadri Range. The Akeri stone, a slate coloured talc-schist, extremely hard, compact and heavy is unrivalled for building purposes. The principal industries of the State consist of gold and silver embroidery work on both leather and cloth, fans, etc, lacquered toys and playing-cards and elegant drawing-room ornaments carved from the horn of the buffalo and bison
